Opposition alleges Tory logo link

OLYMPICS Opposition MPs are alleging that "crass politics" have resulted in a Canadian Olympic retail logo that mirrors the federal Conservative party logo.

Vancouver Liberal Hedy Fry told the House of Commons that a new logo for February's Winter Games "bears a striking resemblance" to that of the governing party. Gary Lunn, minister for amateur sport, responded that the federal government was "not involved in any way, shape or form in the design of any of the Olympic clothing."

Teacher charged

Toronto man accused of luring boys over the Internet

Police have charged a Grade 10 teacher at a Toronto high school with trying to lure two boys under the age of 16 over the Internet.

Det. Bill McGarry said the charges relate to two boys who were under the man's care while he was a volunteer counsellor at a Christian-based camp for boys and girls in Port Sydney.

He said the man has been a counsellor at the Ontario Pioneer Camp since 1997 and mentored many young boys.

Police allege the man befriended two boys at the camp between July 2008 and this past July and had inappropriate contact with them over the Internet.

David Dewees, 32, of Toronto, is charged with two counts of invitation to sexual touching and two counts of luring.

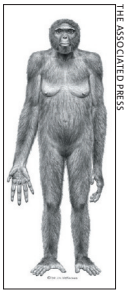
New theory may answer missing link question

Man didn't descend from apes.

What is closer to the truth is that our knuckle-dragging cousins descended from us.

That's one of the shocking new theories being drawn from a series of anthropology papers published Friday in a special edition of the journal Science.

Scientists say a 4.4-million-year-old fossil called Ardi — short for ardipithecus ramidus — is descended from the "missing link," or the last common ancestor between humans and apes.



THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An artist's rendering of "Ardi."

The four-foot, 110-pound female's skeleton and physiological characteristics bear a closer resemblance to modern-day humans than to contemporary apes, meaning they evolved from humanlike creatures — not the other way around.

The partial skeleton "is probably the most important find we have had yet," says Owen Lovejoy, one of the primary authors on the journal package.

"It's transformative. This is a lot closer to anything that you'd call the missing link than anything that's ever been found," says Lovejoy, a biological anthropologist at Ohio's Kent State University.

Hazel facing judicial review

Residents unfazed by news, offer support to embattled mayor

The conflict-of-interest controversy swirling around Mississauga Mayor Hazel McCallion apparently hasn't put a serious dent in her legendary popularity.

Residents interviewed at Square One shopping mall, next door to city hall, were prepared to cut the mayor some major slack — at least, the relative few who were aware of the controversy.

McCallion is facing a judicial review into conflict-of-interest allegations stemming from her involvement in a proposed $14.4 million land deal that was being brokered by her son, Peter McCallion, while the rezoning of the land was before council.

Court documents that surfaced recently show the mayor took part in at least two private meetings involving the land purchase, which, had it been successful, would have led to Peter McCallion's company constructing a large hotel on a site near Square One.

She also failed to declare a conflict when she should have at a May 21, 2008, council meeting, though the minutes erroneously suggested she had declared a conflict.

After getting a legal opinion from an outside law firm, fellow councillors voted 6-4 on Wednesday to have a judge review the matter.

"The credit rating here is Triple A and there's never been any debt. I don't care what they say she's done, I'd still vote for her," said Bill Pearson, who was visiting the mall. "Nobody can match her. Whoever takes over from her will have this city in debt in no time." TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

OPP officer cleared in shooting

WATCHDOG There isn't enough evidence to determine exactly what happened when an OPP officer shot a man to death in a remote area of northwestern Ontario last June, the province's civilian police watchdog has concluded.

"In this most serious case, I have no informational base I can rely upon," Ian Scott, director of the Special Investigations Unit, concluded as the SIU determined there was no basis to conclude that a police officer broke the law in the fatal shooting 500 kilometres north of Thunder Bay in the Osnaburgh Lake area near Sioux Lookout.

Little is known, beyond the fact that the officers approached Levi Schaeffer, 30, of Peterborough shortly after noon on June 24, to question him about a stolen boat, Scott concluded.

Moments later, Schaeffer was shot dead by one of the officers.

The only witnesses to the shooting were the two OPP officers and they didn't write their notes about the shooting until two days later, after they had consulted with a lawyer, Scott noted.

TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

SIU

- The SIU dispatched three investigators and two forensic experts to probe the shooting, but in end had nothing to rely upon but the officers' statements.

Opposition attack WSIB chair

POLITICS Ontario's Opposition took aim at alleged expense account abuses by the chair of the Workplace Safety and Insurance Board on Thursday, calling it another symptom of the "rot" that has infested the Liberal government in its second term.

WSIB chair Steve Mahoney, a former Liberal cabinet minister, is paid $550 a day for the part-time job, and billed taxpayers $141,000 last year, "more per diems than there are working days in the year," complained the Progressive Conservatives.

550 WSIB chair Steve Mahoney, a former Liberal cabinet minister, is paid $550 a day for the part-time job.

"Despite all that public money in his pocket, Mr. Mahoney (also) expensed thousands of dollars for limos," Opposition critic Christine Elliott said in the legislature.

Labour Minister Peter Fonseca told the legislature that Mahoney's expenses were all allowed within the rules that existed at the time. Those rules have since been changed to demand more accountability, he noted.

Caplan calls for vaccine release

Officials worry H1N1 has returned

Flu Outbreak

Ontario Health Minister David Caplan urged Ottawa on Thursday to speed up approval of the H1N1 vaccine amid concerns that a second wave of the swine flu may have already arrived in the province.

David Caplan

Ontario is equipped to deploy the vaccine quickly, but the province can't get it until Health Canada issues a licence to the manufacturer, Caplan said.

Production of the vaccine by GlaxoSmithKline in Ste-Foy, Que., is largely complete, he said.

The federal government wants to make sure the flu shots are safe and effective and, as a result, Caplan said it could take three weeks just to get the necessary approvals in place.

"I'm urging the federal government to show some leadership and, as we're seeing in the United States, expedite the approval process so that we can get (the vaccine) deployed as quickly as we possibly can," he said.

A resurgence of the swine flu is expected this fall, but Ontario officials don't yet know for sure whether it has already arrived.

Other parts of the world have seen several waves of the swine flu, so provincial officials are closely monitoring the situation here, Caplan said.

Caplan's comments come after a published report quoted a senior Ontario health official as saying the second wave may be here.

Retailers confused by plastic bag bylaw

CITY Toronto's new bylaw to curb the use of plastic shopping bags has a hole that leaks like a soggy paper sack, says Coun. Michael Walker.

Retailers also say they'd like the city to clarify the requirements in the bylaw, which requires stores to charge customers five cents or more for single-use plastic bags. The question is whether all stores are also required to offer alternatives, such as paper bags or boxes. Walker noted that retailers have embraced the five-cent charge, but most don't provide a free alternative such as paper bags, although it was council's intent that they would. City manager Joe Pennachetti, responding to Walker's query, says stores that sell single-use plastic bags don't need to offer alternatives. But the bylaw does say that retailers, "who do not offer or provide plastic retail shopping bags to customers shall offer to provide alternatives, such as cardboard boxes or paper bags, at no charge to the customer."

POLITICS The opposition parties say the Liberal government has a double standard when it comes to bureaucrats and cabinet ministers breaking the rules. At issue is a $30-million untendered contract given to IBM that was approved by a powerful committee of the Liberal cabinet.

BYLAW Richmond Hill passed a bylaw this week designating a chunk of the David Dunlap Observatory lands as a property of heritage cultural value. But the designation might turn out to mean little, unless senior governments step in to make the designation firm next week.

Pearson cuts fees for airline industry

No indication if savings will be passed on

Landing fees and terminal charges are being cut by 10 per cent at Toronto's Pearson International Airport, but travellers are unlikely to reap any immediate benefits from the move, which is expected to save the aviation industry $58.4 million next year.

The Greater Toronto Airports Authority said the reductions, effective Jan. 1, will mark the third year in a row that fees have been reduced at Canada's busiest airport. The fees are charged to the airlines to cover the cost of operating and maintaining the airport.

However, it's up to individual airlines to decide whether to cut the price of tickets or reduce or eliminate baggage fees and other charges consumers have long complained about.

While officials for Canada's major airlines — Air Canada and WestJet — lauded the fee reductions, they gave no indication the savings would be passed along to customers as they struggle with declining passenger traffic and revenue as a result of the economic downturn.

32.3M In 2008, 32.3 million passengers travelled through Pearson International Airport.

"We're not talking about airlines making money," WestJet spokesman Robert Palmer said in response to a query on the issue. "We're talking about airlines just staying afloat with respect to both the global and North American marketplaces."

"The entire industry is suffering right now and it's fantastic news to see the GTAA take the lead in Canada," Palmer said.

"We certainly hope that this sends a strong message to other airports across the country to, hopefully, follow their lead."

Even if the savings were passed on, it was unclear how great a change that would make to the average ticket price since the landing and terminal fees represent a relatively small portion of airline costs.

At Air Canada, for example, landing fees account for only 10 per cent of operating costs and less than one per cent of overall costs, according to airline figures. Fees paid at Pearson are estimated to represent perhaps half of the total.

By comparison, fuel costs, up 44 per cent this year, account for some 23 per cent of the airline's costs.

Cumulatively, since 2007, landing fees at Pearson have been reduced by 13.1 per cent and terminal charges by 15 per cent, the authority said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario's new safety requirements for e-bikes take effect Saturday.

New provincial rules in place for electric bikes

GREEN Ontario is bringing in some new safety requirements for electric bikes.

E-bikes, which can reach a speed of 32 kilometres per hour, are allowed to share the road with cars, pedestrians and other traffic throughout the province.

But some new requirements — taking effect Saturday — are being introduced to keep riders safe.

The new rules limit the maximum weight of an e-bike to 120 kilograms, require a maximum braking distance of nine metres and prohibit any modifications to the bike's motor that would create speeds greater than 32 kilometres per hour. Also, riders must be at least 16 years of age, wear approved bicycle or motorcycle helmets and follow the same traffic laws as bicyclists.

The bikes are considered a green travel option since riders can pedal them like a regular bicycle or switch over to the electric motor. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hospitals to use surgical checklist

HEALTH Ontario hospitals will be required to use a surgical safety checklist and report on their compliance starting next spring as part of a government effort to improve patient safety, The Canadian Press has learned.

Hospitals already report on eight indicators of patient safety, such as C. difficile rates and hand washing.

The new rules, to be announced Thursday, will require hospitals to report publicly twice a year on whether they're following the checklist, starting July 31, 2010. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Injury risk coming to fore as cheerleading grows popular

SPORT As cheerleading participation soars on teams in the United States and Canada, injuries are also on the rise for a sport once the preserve of pompoms and megaphones but now transformed into a wildly popular rough and tumble trapeze show.

At the University of North Carolina, the National Center for Catastrophic Sport Injury Research recently reported there have been 112 catastrophic injuries to high school girls in the United States over the last 26 years, 65 per cent of which happened in cheerleading.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission reported there were close to 27,000 emergency room visits in the U.S. in 2007 due to cheerleading injuries. About 15 per cent were head and neck injuries.

Similar statistics are not kept in Canada, but Leanne Livingston of the Alberta Cheerleading Association questions any comparison.

"Injuries do happen, it's just like any other sport," said Livingston. "But in my experience in cheerleading for over 25 years, there has never been any kind of catastrophic injury."

Cheerleaders Paige Parks, top, Jessica Ambler, right, and Katie Dusang of Harry Ainley High School practice in Edmonton this week.

Deanna Mason of the Ontario Cheerleading Federation bristled over media reporting of the U.S catastrophe numbers, which she said have implied cheerleading is reckless.

"I know there are a lot of coaches and programs that are really safe and never had severe injuries. But it can happen in any sport."

Bishop released on bail

Man who helped broker abuse settlement faces child-porn charges

Parishioners at a Nova Scotia archdiocese where children allegedly endured decades of sexual abuse at the hands of Roman Catholic priests were urged to keep their faith intact Thursday as the man who helped to salve old wounds surrendered to police on child pornography charges.

Archbishop Anthony Mancini of Halifax appealed to past victims of abuse and parishioners in the diocese of Antigonish after Bishop Raymond Lahey turned himself in at Ottawa police headquarters.

"I call on you to be hopeful because we do believe in new life and in new possibilities," Mancini told a news conference in Sydney.

Parishioner John MacEachern said Lahey was held in wide esteem in the diocese for his work as theologian and a liturgist, and for brokering a $15-million settlement for parishioners who claimed to have been sexually abused by priests dating back to 1950.

He called the 69-year-old priest "the face of the settlement" and the person who was going to help the local church move on.

SEAN KILPATRICK/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Reverend Raymond Lahey arrives at a police station in Ottawa Thursday to turn himself in to Ottawa police. Lahey, a former Nova Scotia bishop, is facing child-pornography charges.

In Ottawa, a sombre Lahey climbed out of a black sedan and pushed through a crush of reporters to surrender to the charges that have stunned his flock and shaken an already tarnished institution.

Police say Lahey was later granted bail on conditions until his next court appearance on Nov. 4.

The charges against Lahey were filed last Friday — 10 days after officials found images of "concern" on his laptop computer at the Ottawa airport as he was returning from a foreign trip.

He resigned from his post with the diocese of Antigonish on the weekend before news of the charges became public.

Laptops fair game for border searches

CUSTOMS The arrest of a Catholic bishop on child-pornography charges highlights the power of border agents to see not just your passport, but the contents of your laptop computer.

Between them, the Canada Border Services Agency and the RCMP enforce dozens of statutes — the border agency at ports and crossings, the Mounties between ports of entry.

Border authority

- Border officers have powers of arrest, detention, and search and seizure, as well as the authority to take breath and blood samples, issue arrest warrants, and operate detention facilities for immigrants.

The Customs Act gives Canada's border officers authority to examine people's personal baggage and goods upon arrival to, and departure from, Canada, including scrutiny of electronic devices.

"Officers are trained to search electronic media for child pornography, obscene material and hate propaganda," said Patrizia Giolti of the border services agency.

"They receive training to familiarize themselves with computers and other devices and how to quickly identify potential files."

In cases where an officer determines through "visual inspection" that an image is child pornography, the material is seized.

"Law enforcement would then be contacted for the purposes of laying charges under the Criminal Code."

Terror suspect found guilty

He was hoping to die abroad as a martyr in a jihadist bloodbath. Instead, he faces the prospect of languishing for years in a Canadian jail cell.

A Quebec man was convicted Thursday on four terrorism charges related to the plotting of attacks in Germany and Austria, apparently to protest the military presence of those countries in Afghanistan.

Said Namouh was found guilty of conspiracy to detonate an explosive device, participating in a terrorist act, facilitating an act of terrorism, and committing extortion for a terrorist group.

The Moroccan-born Namouh, 36, faces life in prison.

Sentencing arguments will be held Nov. 13.

Crown prosecutor Dominique Dudemaine said he may ask for a life sentence.

"The evidence is uncontradicted — Namouh said he wishes to die as a martyr," Dudemaine said.

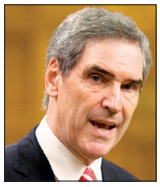
Iggy drops the gloves

But he loses vote in the Commons

Liberal leader Michael Ignatieff introduced a motion in the Commons declaring no-confidence in Prime Minister Stephen Harper's government.

But without the support of the Bloc Québécois and NDP, it was purely symbolic.

The Commons voted 144-117 against the Liberal motion.



Michael Ignatieff: 'Soul-searching."

New Democrats, who supported the Tory government in its last near-death experience last month, abstained in the no-confidence vote late Thursday, sparing voters their second trip to the polls in 12 months.

"We will do our job, even if they will not," Ignatieff told the nearly empty Conservative benches in the Commons.

NDP Leader Jack Layton has said he wants to see changes to employment insurance get passed into law and he's not prepared to endanger the changes by bringing down the government.

Ignatieff told reporters his party had done "much soul-searching."

Liberal support has kept the Harper government in power for more than three years.

But the corrosive impact of that begrudging support has affected Liberal morale.

Many Liberal MPs also have cold feet at the prospect of a return trip to the polls.

Coderre sought to allay those concerns Thursday. "I still have confidence in Michael Ignatieff," he wrote in a posting.

Man shot after 5-day B.C. standoff

RCMP A northeastern B.C. man has been shot and killed by the RCMP after a five-day standoff that started with a domestic dispute.

It's the second time in less than a week that a northern B.C. resident has died in gunfire with police.

A man died Saturday near New Hazelton while police tried to arrest him.

The RCMP say the latest incident began Saturday when the 41-year-old resident of a farm near Buick Creek, north of Fort St. John, pursued a van carrying his wife, children and a friend.

Police say he forced the vehicle to stop, shot out the tires, and went home. Then the standoff began.

Baby killer pleads guilty, gets life in jail

No parole for 25 years for New Brunswick man

A New Brunswick man accused of fatally stabbing a newborn in the heart earlier this year has pleaded guilty to first-degree murder.

Rodney Miller entered the plea Thursday after the Crown finished its closing arguments and was given an automatic sentence of life in prison with no chance for a parole for at least 25 years.

The 28-year-old man's defence lawyer conceded earlier this week that his client killed the baby, but had argued it was second-degree murder.

Miller and his girlfriend, Sarah Russell, 20, were arrested Jan. 29 on suspicion they had concealed the birth of a baby boy.

For months, social workers believed Russell had been pregnant, but she consistently denied it.

But during an escorted visit on Jan. 22 with her first child — who is in foster care — social workers said she no longer appeared pregnant, court heard. Subsequent visits to the home by social workers and police produced no evidence of a baby.

The court was told Wednesday that details of the case began to unfold after Miller was taken into custody. THE CANADIAN PRESS

HBC unveils Olympic uniforms

VANCOUVER 2010 Games

OLYMPICS The Hudson's Bay Co. has unveiled a series of simple, classic-looking uniforms that Canadian athletes will wear during the 2010 Winter Olympics in Vancouver.

The items range from sweatshirts emblazoned with a retro-looking logo spelling out "Canada" and old-fashioned knit sweaters to toques and red mittens.

The clothing includes not just the classic Canadian red and white, but also plenty of black — which the designers say represents strength.

It's a far cry from the uniforms for the 2008 Summer Games in Beijing, which were widely criticized as too busy and just plain weird

The CEO of the Vancouver Olympic organizing committee, John Furlong, says athletes had a say in approving the clothing line to ensure they'll feel comfortable competing in front of Canadian fans and the world. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Made in Canada

- All of the athletes' clothing will be made in Canada, but some of the apparel that will be sold to the public is being manufactured overseas.

Smart says she was raped daily

UTAH Elizabeth Smart says she was raped repeatedly each day after she was abducted from her bedroom seven years ago and told she would be killed if she yelled or tried to escape.

Smart testified Thursday in U.S. District Court in Salt Lake City as part of a competency proceedings for the man charged in her 2002 kidnapping.

Brian David Mitchell has twice been found incompetent for trial in state court. Mitchell and his estranged wife were found with Smart nine months after she disappeared from her Salt Lake City home.

A judge ruled earlier this week that testimony from Smart, now 21, is relevant to Mitchell's mental competency. Smart testified that Mitchell was motivated by sex and used religion to get what he wanted.

U.S., Iran delegates have rare meeting

Iran and six world powers ended a landmark meeting Thursday with an agreement to take a new stab at overcoming years of mistrust generated by Tehran's nuclear program and meet again this month for wide-ranging discussions on the two sides' concerns.

Adding to the optimism generated by the decision to hold follow-up talks was a rare bilateral meeting between the senior U.S. and Iranian delegates to the meeting.

In addition, diplomats said Iran will open its newly disclosed nuclear plant to UN inspectors within a few weeks.

U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton, speaking in Washington shortly after the talks ended, called the day productive but sounded a pragmatic note, as well.

"I will count it as a positive sign when it moves from gestures and engagements to actions and results," she said. "That's a necessary pathway and I think we're on it."

The encounter appeared to be proof of President Barack Obama's commitment to engage Iran directly on nuclear and other issues. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

California struck by moderate earthquake

A moderate earthquake and dozens of aftershocks rattled a rural area of California Thursday, but no damage or injuries were reported. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Quake toll at 1,100

Rescue workers pulled victims from the rubble of buildings felled by a powerful earthquake that a government official said killed at least 777 people. The UN put the death toll at 1,100 and said it was likely to rise.

The brunt of Wednesday's 7.6-magnitude earthquake, which originated in the sea off Sumatra island, appeared to have been borne by the city of Padang, where a government official said most of the deaths occurred. The region was jolted by another powerful quake Thursday morning, causing damage but no reported fatalities.

More than 500 buildings including hotels, schools, hospitals and a mall were destroyed or damaged in Padang. Thousands of people were still believed to be trapped in the rubble, said Rustam Pakaya, head of the health ministry's crisis centre. Workers used backhoes to shift debris.

The government official told The Associated Press at least 777 people are confirmed to have died in the quake, with about 300 seriously injured.

At the United Nations, UN humanitarian chief John Holmes said Thursday the latest figures "suggest the death toll has risen already to 1,100" and likely would rise.

China flexes muscles

Ceremony marks 60 years of communist rule

Jets, tanks and missile-toting trucks thundered through Beijing on Thursday in a show of military muscle to celebrate six decades of communist rule and China's transformation from a war-battered regional player into a global superpower.

Most people in the capital could only watch the elaborate ceremony for the founding of the People's Republic on television, as tight security excluded ordinary people from getting near the parade through Tiananmen Square.

President Hu Jintao, in a Mao jacket instead of a business suit, rode in an open-top Red Flag limousine to review the thousands of troops. A parade of kitschy floats, flanked by more than 100,000 people, lauded the communist revolution and the Beijing Olympics.

"The message that is intended is: 'We are modern, we are Chinese, we are great, we are fantastic, and we all do it because of the great leadership of the Communist Party'," said Steve Tsang, a China politics expert at Oxford University.

Behind the celebrations is China's tremendous change in fortune. A poor country that was weak internationally when the communists took over on Oct. 1, 1949, China has become the world's third-largest economy.

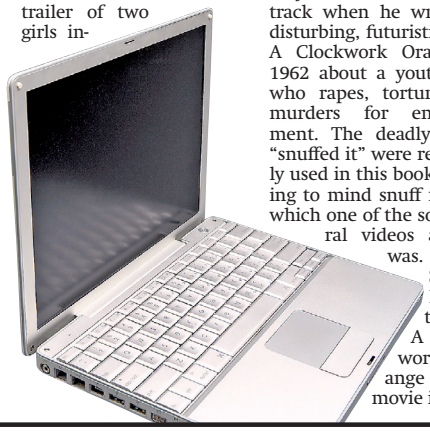
Internet trend shocks

InStep
Christine Williams

A disturbing Internet trend called "reaction videos" is exploding in youth popularity. Here's how it works: A person's reaction is recorded while watching some other shocking video of which he/she is oblivious about and then posted on the web.

Reaction is intense, from crying and gagging to rolling on the floor. So no wonder they're popular. The big deal is if you decide to look into what these youngsters are actually looking at to generate such intense feedback.

At least two of these shocking videos have gone viral in popularity. So I opted to do a little research without watching any of them. One was an unedited video leak of the gruesome slaying of an Eastern European man hammered to death and stabbed by some youth. This was a hard-working village man with throat cancer who struggled to support his wife, two sons, one grandchild and a disabled mom. The other viral video showed a trailer of two girls indulging in grotesque pornographic acts of coprophagia.



I was perplexed as to why any person would be driven to watch this stuff or show it to anyone. One youngster showed the pornographic trailer to her unsuspecting grandmother, who retorted in horror that her granddaughter needed help.

Author Anthony Burgess may not have been off track when he wrote his disturbing, futuristic novel A Clockwork Orange in 1962 about a youth gang who rapes, tortures and murders for entertainment. The deadly words "snuffed it" were repeatedly used in this book, bringing to mind snuff films of which one of the sordid viral videos actually was. When Stanley Kubrick turned A Clockwork Orange into a movie in 1971, it earned him more than four Oscar nominations: Controversy exploded in England over copycat crimes, which led Kubrick to withdraw his own film from the U.K.

That was then. Now our children are watching real snuff. Although we know copycat crimes are generally committed by those with a history of violence and severe mental disturbance, why create a milieu for such pathologies to flourish?

It's time for all of us to appeal to the timeless conscience within us amid the evolutionary changes of our modern virtual world. If, collectively, we are in danger of losing our conscience along the frantic highway of life, then I can't think of a better reason to risk pulling off to the shoulder and recouping this valuable possession.

Fate of Miller's legacy projects in limbo

UrbanCompass
April Lindgren
metronews.ca/lindgren

Mayor David Miller's decision not to run in next year's municipal election is a graceful exit by a classy guy. Maybe he could have successfully wooed Torontonians for a third time, but the odds weren't in his favour — the stench of political blood in the air has been overpowering.

So now what? Miller will be around for another 14 months and says he wants to use the time to consolidate his legacy. Good luck with that.

The mayor is still mayor until November 2010 and in theory, at least, he will continue exercising his moral and political influence to implement his agenda. In reality, Miller's ability to force feed councillors anything they consider even slightly unpalatable evaporated the minute he made it clear he won't seek re-election.

Councillors no longer have to fear crossing the mayor and never again being appointed by him to chair a committee. Councillors who are considering their own run at the city's top political office will be pushing their own agendas, rather than that of the lame-duck incumbent. Councillors who aren't running for mayor will be currying favour with those who are.

On the 2010 budget front, the city faces a shortfall of between $300 million and $500 million for day-to-day operations. Federal and provincial governments that are drowning in red ink of their own will be reluctant to ride to the rescue with infrastructure stimulus funds or one-time cash bailouts, so something will have to go. It's a good bet some of Miller's pet projects will be targeted even as his ability to champion them is severely diminished.

Some of those pet projects, however, should be protected. The Transit City system of new, light-rail lines that will knit together neighbourhoods badly served by transit must remain a priority. The mayor's tower renewal project, which involves redeveloping the lands around low-income, suburban highrises and making the towers themselves more sustainable, is an experiment worth continuing. The admittedly imperfect bike plan, which promises more bike lanes and bike parking, deserves to survive.

The fate of these Miller legacy projects will be decided by the present city council during budget making this fall and winter. The mayor no longer has the clout to fend off those who would hollow out these initiatives. But then he shouldn't need it. Councillors should put the city's interests ahead of their own and ensure the projects are kept alive.

Worth mentioning

Banned Books Week marked by live readings

The Grapes Of Wrath was labelled vulgar and pornographic, a dangerous depiction of class hatred. I Know Why The Caged Bird Sings was removed from classrooms and library shelves after its 1969 publication, deemed inappropriate for its depiction of author Maya Angelou's rape as an eight-year-old girl.

Then there's Slaughterhouse Five, whose obscenities, violence and unpatriotic portrayal of the Second World War drew fire from worried parents and librarians.

Once silenced, the books were among more than a dozen given live readings this week as part of a series of events marking Banned Books Week, an annual celebration by the American Library Association.

Banning books or censuring their authors has been practised since the dawn of the printing press and before, and continues today.

"We're certainly seeing increased efforts to remove or restrict books that are aimed for young adults," said Deborah Caldwell-Stone, acting director of ALA's office for intellectual freedom. "There are parents who believe that young people under 18 shouldn't be having access to books that discuss sex or drug use, or homosexuality, and we understand that."

Globalive is Canadian, eh?

Firm tries to prove independence from Egyptian partner

The question of whether Globalive will get to set up a national cellphone company in Canada is in the hands of the federal regulator after changes made by the fledgling firm were dismissed by its rivals as window dressing.

Toronto-based Globalive went to the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission Thursday with a lengthy list of concessions designed to show it has reduced its dependence on Egyptian telecom giant Orascom.

Changes made by Globalive

- Globalive has altered its board structure, increased the threshold after which Orascom can use its veto rights on company matters, extended the terms of a $442-million bridge loan from the Egyptian firm, and inserted a clause that gives Globalive the right to terminate its technical agreement with Orascom.

After being hammered by Rogers Wireless, Telus, Bell and regulators last week over how much of the new company is owned, and apparently controlled, by its Egyptian partner, Thursday's testimony was Globalive's last chance to prove control lies in Canada.

Shoppers, such as these along Michigan Avenue in Chicago, opened their wallets in August, pushing up consumer spending by the largest amount in nearly eight years.

American shoppers hit the stores

ECONOMY American consumer spending, propelled by the wildly popular Cash for Clunkers auto sales program, shot up in August by the largest amount in nearly eight years even though personal incomes continued to lag.

The U.S. Commerce Department said Thursday that consumer spending, which accounts for 70 per cent of total economic activity, rose 1.3 per cent in August, even better than the 1.1 per cent expected. Incomes, the fuel for future spending gains, continued to lag, edging up 0.2 per cent in August.

The strong increase in spending sets the stage for a return to positive growth in the third quarter. Many economists believe the GDP grew at an annual rate as high as three to 3.5 per cent in the summer.

Ford a big winner in auto sales

September auto sales shrunk by only 3.5 per cent compared to a year ago, a much smaller decline than recent months as sales incentives and a general improvement in the economic climate provided a boost.

Ford and Hyundai emerged as the two clear winners among the major automakers, while General Motors, Chrysler, Honda and Toyota continued to see their sales shrink.

According to data compiled by DesRosiers Automotive Consultants, Ford Canada's September sales increased by 24.4 per cent — compared to a year earlier — to 16,140. The company maintained its second-place position, claiming 15.4 per cent of the Canadian market.

17.7 % General Motors held onto its first-place ranking with 17.7 per cent of market share, although its sales fell 23.4 per cent to 23,568, compared to September 2008.

September was also the fourth month in a row that Ford has increased its Canadian sales year over year, the company said.

Among the Asian automakers, Korean company Hyundai emerged as the clear winner, with sales that DesRosiers described as being "in the stratosphere" — up 30.8 per cent. THE CANADIAN PRESS

NOTICE OF CERTIFICATION AND SETTLEMENT OF DIOCESE OF ANTIGONISH CLASS ACTION

TO: All persons who were sexually assaulted by any priest of the Catholic Episcopal Corporation of Antigonish ("the Diocese") since January 1, 1950, including the Estates of all such persons now deceased ("Class Members")

NOTICE OF CERTIFICATION AND SETTLEMENT

This Notice advises Class Members of a conditional certification and settlement of a class action lawsuit regarding alleged sexual abuse by priests in the Diocese of Antigonish (the "Diocese"). The action is referred to as Martin v. Lahey et al., Hfx. No. 297827 in the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia (the "Action")

WHO IS INCLUDED IN THE SETTLEMENT?

All persons who were sexually assaulted by any priest of the Catholic Episcopal Corporation of Antigonish between January 1, 1950, and the date of certification, September 10, 2009, including the Estates of all such persons now deceased.

WHAT ARE THE TERMS OF THE SETTLEMENT?

The settlement creates a fund of up to $12 million ("Settlement Fund") to pay compensation to eligible Class Members, a fund of $1 million ("Expense Fund") to pay the expenses of the settlement, and a fund to pay certain claimant's costs ("Costs Fund"). In order to be considered for compensation, Class Members must file a completed Claim Form with Diocese Counsel on or before March 10, 2010. Class members may be required to be evaluated by a neutral medical expert. If both parties agree, a claim may be settled without a hearing. Otherwise, the claim will be adjudicated by a retired judge of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia at a private and confidential hearing. The claim can include compensation for pain and suffering, and wage loss up to certain limits. The Diocese will pay successful claimants certain amounts for costs of (1) necessary counseling, and (2) pursuing a successful claim. The amount paid to each eligible claimant will depend upon both the evidence presented and the total value of other eligible claims.

This Notice is just a summary. To review the full agreement, visit www.dioceseclassaction.com.

WHAT OPTIONS DO CLASS MEMBERS HAVE?

1. YOU CAN SUBMIT A COMPENSATION CLAIM

If you choose to file a Claim, you or your counsel are requested to notify Class Counsel of your intention to become a Claimant on or before December 4, 2009. The address is:

Arnold Pizzo McKiggan
306-5670 Spring Garden Road
Halifax, Nova Scotia B3J 1H6
Toll Free in Atlantic Canada: 1-877-423-2050
Local: (902) 423-2050
Fax: (902) 423-6707
Email: claimslawyer@dioceseclassaction.com
Attn: Mr. John McKiggan, Class Counsel

Claim Forms are available from Class Counsel or at www.dioceseclassaction.com.

To be considered, you must complete, sign and file a Claim Form with Diocese Counsel named below, on or before March 10, 2010:

MacIntosh, MacDonnell & MacDonald
610 East River Road, Suite 260, P.O. Box 368
New Glasgow, NS, B2H 5E5
Fax: 902.752.7810
Attn: Bruce T. MacIntosh, Q.C., Diocese Counsel
Email: dioceselawyer@dioceseclassaction.com

2. YOU CAN DO NOTHING

You do not have to make a claim under the class action if you choose not to do so. However, if you choose not to file a claim within the time limit, you will not be allowed to make a class action claim or commence a private lawsuit against the Diocese for compensation in the future, unless you file a notice to exclude yourself from the settlement class ("Opt Out Notice").

3. OPT OUT NOTICE

If you do not want to participate in the class action settlement, but want to preserve your right to commence a private lawsuit for compensation in the future, you must formally opt out by completing the Opt Out Form and filing this form with Diocese Counsel no later than December 4, 2009. Opt Out Forms are available from Class Counsel or at www.dioceseclassaction.com.

CAN THE SETTLEMENT BE CANCELLED?

If too many class members come forward, the Plaintiff Ronald Martin has the option to cancel the settlement and continue with the Action. If class member(s) opt out, the Diocese has the option to cancel the settlement and continue defending against the Action in the conventional manner.

LEGAL FEES

The Court has approved an interim fee payment for Class Counsel. Class Counsel have permission to apply at a later date for further approved fees up to a cumulative total fee not exceeding $400,000.00, to be paid from the Costs Fund.

LEGAL COUNSEL:

You can confidentially retain the services of Class Counsel to represent you in your claim. You can also retain your own private lawyer, or self-represent yourself. Use of a lawyer is recommended. Any fee arrangement will be reviewed by the Judge for reasonableness.

WHERE CAN CLASS MEMBERS GET MORE INFORMATION?

For more information, visit: www.dioceseclassaction.com or contact Class Counsel John McKiggan.

This Summary Notice has been approved by the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia. Do Not Contact the Court about this Settlement.

Timminco completes $3.1M sale of silicon

SOLAR INDUSTRY Specialty metals producer Timminco Limited says it has completed the sale of $3.1 million of solar grade silicon to AMG Advanced Metallurgical Group N.V., the Canadian company's largest shareholder.

The 80-tonne sale comes about three months after Timminco was forced to lay off 60 employees amid weak quarterly demand for its solar silicon.

In July, Timminco said it had unloaded only 14 per cent of its inventory despite operating at reduced capacity.

TSX

- Timminco's shares closed at $1.34 Wednesday on the Toronto Stock Exchange.

AMG Conversion will use the solar grade silicon to produce solar grade ingots and bricks for the solar wafer market.

Although AMG owns nearly 48 per cent of Timminco's equity, the Toronto-based company said the price of the silicon was level with what had been negotiated for similar material with third parties.

Timminco produces solar grade silicon for the solar industry as well as silicon metal for use in a broad range of industrial applications.

TurboSonic Tech triples profit

FILTERS TurboSonic Technologies, Inc., a global provider of air filters and industrial pollution control technology, reports its fourth quarter profit more than tripled to $619,584 US from $206,823 as the southwestern Ontario company generated higher revenues.

TurboSonic said Thursday it earned four cents a share for the three months ended June 30, the fourth quarter of the company's 2009 fiscal year. That was up from one cent a year earlier.

Revenues rose to $7.9 million from $5.7 million, said the company, which reports in U.S. currency.

For the full fiscal year, TurboSonic's net profit was nearly $1.6 million.

Josh Gorges and Carey Price helped the Montreal Canadiens steal two points from their oldest rivals.

The defenceman scored the winner with 12.8 seconds left in overtime Thursday and Price made 43 saves as the Canadiens stunned the Toronto Maple Leafs with a 4-3 victory.

The Habs were badly outshot and thoroughly outplayed through two periods, but found a way to hang around and pull out the victory. They got some help from former teammate Mike Komisarek, who was in the penalty box for two Montreal goals.

Brian Gionta, Travis Moen and Glen Metropolit also scored for the Canadiens.

Matt Stajan, with two, and Alexei Ponikarovsky replied for Toronto.

Gorges went to the net and batted a rebound over Vesa Toskala after Mike Cammalleri had taken the puck hard to the goal. He was quickly mobbed by his teammates.

The teams made it an entertaining opening to the season with a fast game that was much better than the plodding hockey of the pre-season.

It's clear the Habs-Leafs rivalry runs deeper than just history, with three fights, several scrums after the whistle and plenty of jawing back and forth.

Liverpool looking to rebound against Chelsea

SOCCER Stung by strong words from managers Carlo Ancelotti and Rafa Benitez, Chelsea and Liverpool go head to head Sunday each knowing that a defeat could mean losing ground on leader Manchester United.

While defending champion United is confident of beating Sunderland at home and stretching its league and cup winning streak to nine, third-place Liverpool has to overcome the shock of a 2-0 Champions League loss to Fiorentina, which had Benitez blasting his players.

"I have never seen this team of mine struggle as much as we did."
Rafa Benitez, Liverpool manager

"I have never seen this team of mine struggle as much as we did in the first half," the Liverpool manager said after Tuesday's loss. "I was just so disappointed because we made so many mistakes and were made to pay for them."

The Liverpool players said they had not seen Benitez so angry about a performance.

"I think this was the most annoyed we have seen the manager, but we were all annoyed," said left-back Fabio Aurelio. "We didn't need harsh words at halftime. We all knew that we were not playing well and that we had to be much better."

Liverpool captain Steven Gerrard said the team, which is three points behind United, had to improve quickly before taking on Chelsea at Stamford Bridge.

"It was a really disappointing night for us. We just didn't turn up and we were second best all over the pitch," he said. "Now we've got a massive game at Chelsea on (Sunday). We have to get this result out of our system quickly."

Evans brings edge to Raptors

NBA On a team that had been lacking toughness, it doesn't get much tougher than Reggie Evans.

Three days into training camp, his new Toronto Raptors teammates have the bumps, bruises and scratches to prove it.

"A guy like that, if you're not playing as hard as you need to, you're probably going to get hurt, to put it quite frankly," said Raptors all-star forward Chris Bosh. "You're going to get an elbow or something because he's going to play hard, and if you're really lagging and not playing hard, bad things happen. He makes you elevate your game."

The Raptors traded sharpshooter Jason Kapono to Philadelphia in the off-season for Evans to inject some grit into a lineup that had little, and the 29-year-old's hard-nosed style is already rubbing off on his teammates.

Evans' new teammates haven't let him off easy either, and that's a good thing for a guy who doesn't mind the rough stuff.

"A lot of the guys are being really aggressive. Bargnani, he's going really strong and not complaining. Those are good signs," Evans said. "Players are coming back at me aggressive and I love that. It makes me better. I can't play with guys who are playing weak. They hit me really tough, they hit me with their shoulder, they push me in my back, so they're coming back at me. It's all love. I like it." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Great One escapes our expectations

FieldofPlay

Scott Russell

metronews.ca/fieldofplay

Another NHL season dawns and the brightest light in hockey's history is nowhere on the horizon.

Wayne Gretzky has had his fill of living up to our expectations of him. Who could blame him? What was once a joyful expression of his magical powers has become just another case file in a bankruptcy court.

How did this happen?

Wayne Gretzky

When Gretzky was an Edmonton Oiler no one played hockey with his intuition. He was a savant, the kind of ethereal being who knew how to make all the right things happen. He was a sorcerer on skates who captured our undying affection.

But Gretzky was sold to the Los Angeles Kings and became the rainmaker for an icy game in the dry sun belt of America. The expectation was that he could single-handedly cultivate a Canadian obsession in a place where few knew or cared where Canada was.

This is where the Great One's powers began to elude him. The Kings never won the Stanley Cup and he moved on. Gretzky went to St. Louis and New York and eventually retired after a journey that included his ignominious exclusion from a shootout at the 1998 Olympics where he might have delivered Canada the gold medal.

But we expected that Gretzky could, like soccer's Pele, be an ambassadorial figure once his playing days were done. Wayne Gretzky, we thought, could be hockey's wise sage.

It hasn't turned out that way yet.

Like many gifted artists, he became convinced that his abilities could be transferred from his palate, in this case the ice, to the boardrooms and eventually behind the bench.

Gretzky did help Canada to a gold medal at the 2002 Olympics but the players like Iginla, Sakic and Lemieux were the ones who really made it happen.

And then he failed miserably as the coach of the Phoenix Coyotes. We unfairly expected him to be great in that role, too — a common mistake because rarely do great players make great teachers. It's a vastly different skill set.

So once again Wayne Gretzky is gone from centre ice. His reasons are probably numerous and complex, but one has to believe he's dog-tired of trying to live up to our expectations of him.

Scott Russell is the Host of CBC Sports Weekend seen Saturday afternoons. He has covered professional and amateur sports including nine Olympic games and numerous world championships.

STOP HAIR LOSS

BIO-FEN PLUS™ is a natural health product used in the treatment of hereditary androgenic alopecia (AGA) in adults (male or female pattern baldness.) It contains scientifically calculated proportions of extracts of fenugreek seeds, saw palmetto berries and flax lignans. Each are known to possess an inhibitor of the enzyme responsible for causing male or female pattern baldness. It also contains a mixture of B vitamins, folate and biotin to help metabolize these herbal extracts so that they are more bio-available, and to support the growth of strong and healthy hair.

What causes hereditary hair loss?

Each hair grows from a pocket in the skin called the hair follicle. During its growing phase, the follicle has a bulb-shaped bottom, the center of which is called the dermal papilla. The papilla is fed by very small blood vessels, which bring it food & oxygen and remove wastes. The papilla is highly sensitive to hormones and chemicals secreted by the body (or ingested as a medicine) which impacts hair growth.

It is believed that some individuals have a genetic predisposition to a receding hairline (most common in men) or hair/follicle thinning over larger areas of scalp (more common in women). These conditions result from hormonal changes caused by an enzyme in the dermal papilla called 5-alpha-reductase. This enzyme breaks down the hormone testosterone into dihydrotestosterone (DHT).

Over a period of time, an over abundance of DHT causes the hair follicle to degrade and shortens the active phase of the hair, eventually leading to thinner hair and eventual hair loss.

How does BIO-FEN PLUS™ work?

Specific compounds within the herbal extracts inhibit the 5-alpha-reductase (and therefore reduce DHT) to prevent or slow down the rate of hair loss. This process is the principle by which the prescription drugs such as Propecia (finasteride) work. However, BIO-FEN PLUS™ also contains additional compounds which remove excess cholesterol and testosterone – the building blocks of DHT.

BIO-FEN PLUS™ also contains vitamins to increase blood flow to the small capillaries that feed the hair roots, to deliver the active herbal compounds and remove waste. Therefore, BIO-FEN PLUS™ provides a natural, safer alternative to expensive drugs, and/or expensive & painful hair transplants. As with the prescription alternatives, results vary from person to person, and no one product will work for everyone.

How long must I use BIO-FEN PLUS™ ?

BIO-FEN PLUS™ capsules are usually effective at stopping hair loss within the first two months. However, since healthy hair grows only about 1 cm each month, it may take up to three months before you notice that hair growth is increased or further hair loss is stopped.

Anyone experiencing new growth will see it within four to six months. Once results become apparent, some users are able to reduce their BIO-FEN PLUS™ supplement dose to one capsule every second or every third day. Some clients will continue to take BIO-FEN PLUS™ daily. Once you stop completely, however, your hair growth pattern will slowly go back to the point where you started.

How safe is BIO-FEN PLUS™ ?

The ingredient combination in BIO-FEN PLUS™ is generally safe for most adults. However, the following cautions are advised:

Folic acid: Consult a health care practitioner if you are uncertain whether or not you are taking adequate vitamin B12, as folate supplementation can mask a Vitamin B12 deficiency.

Vitamin B3: Consult a health care practitioner prior to use if you have impaired liver function.

Vitamin B6: Consult a health care practitioner prior to use if you are taking levodopa.

What is the quality of BIO-FEN PLUS™ ?

BIO-FEN PLUS™ is manufactured in Canada according to a quality assurance program called Good Manufacturing Practices (GMP). This ensures that the ingredients are tested for their level of quality, potency & purity, prior to production and again prior to sale.

See our website to locate your nearest Health Food Store or Pharmacy that offers BIO-FEN PLUS™ and other quality products from Hair Grow Technology. If you have any questions or comments about our products that target hair loss and support the growth of strong, healthy hair, please do not hesitate to contact us.

Each BIO-FEN PLUS™ capsule contains (mg/capsule):

Fenugreek (Trigonella feonum graecum) seed extract 4:1	260 mg
Saw palmetto berry extract contains 45% powder, esters & sterols	160 mg
Flax lignans, standardized to 20% secoisolariciresinol diglucoside (SDG)	100 mg
D-calcium pantothenate (Vitamin B5)	10.40 mg
Niacinamide (Vitamin B3)	10.25 mg
Pyridoxine HCl (Vitamin B6)	2.00 mg
Riboflavin (Vitamin B2)	1.58 mg
Folic acid	0.095 mg
Biotin	400 mcg

Non-medicinal ingredients: inert microcrystalline cellulose and vegetable-based magnesium stearate in a veggie-based capsule.

Recommended adult dose: one capsule per day

VANCOUVER 2010 Games

In four months, thousands of people will descend upon Whistler, B.C., fuelled by testosterone, adrenaline and the anticipation of an Olympic-sized party — and it's possible they'll leave with more than just memories.

Jennifer Matthews, a Vancouver-based researcher who conducted the 2007 Whistler Guys Study on intoxicated sex, said some Olympic host cities, such as Sydney, ended up with a higher rate of sexually transmitted infections following the Games.

"People come and they party. They might have unprotected sex with someone and get an STI, but (it's difficult to) track that because they go home to their home country," she said.

Marisa Collins, a physician at Whistler's Sexual Awareness For Everyone clinic, said she is not sure what to expect.

In a 2008 column for the U.K.'s Times Online, British journalist and former Olympian Matthew Syed described the Olympic atmosphere among athletes as being thick with sexual tension — something he attributed to their high testosterone levels and a "volcanic release of pent-up hedonism" after displaying "an unnatural level of self-discipline."

His first Games, in Barcelona, was "as much about sex as it was sport," he wrote.

Searching for lama

IAN GORMELY
for Metro Canada

FEATURE "You could say it was love at first sight."

That's how filmmaker Nati Baratz describes his first meeting with Tibetan monk Tenzin Zopa, the subject of his new documentary Unmistaken Child — opening today. The film chronicles Tenzin's quest to find the young reincarnation of his life-long master Lama Konchog.

But this was not the film Baratz intended to make when he set out for Asia. Originally, he wanted to document a group of orthodox Jews search for a hidden Jewish-Tibetan tribe.

He met Tenzin while in Nepal, researching his movie and attending classes at a Tibetan Buddhist monastery. He was there to speak about his life and his master who had just died. Baratz says he realized, "this is the movie I want to make."

But it took months for both Tenzin and the Tibetan monks Baratz their permission to make the film. "It was a long process," says Baratz. "Twenty-thirty hour bus trips, five times. They examined my patience."

Baratz doesn't believe in reincarnation. Rather, it was his belief in Tenzin's dedication to his master that helped him work through all the hurdles thrown down by the monks.

"Tenzin said, 'but what if we never find the reincarnation? What if it takes 20 years?' He was very much worried about me making this commitment." After all, scouring the Nepalese country for a one-year-old reincarnated lama is like digging out a needle from a haystack.

"I told him that I am ready to take on the responsibility on the condition that he would be with me the whole way."

Jesse Eisenberg navigates through a world gone undead in Zombieland.

CHRIS ALEXANDER
for Metro Canada

With its slow motion tableaux of marauding, gore-caked ghouls running down hapless victims to the timeless battering of Metallica's For Whom the Bell Tolls, Zombieland's opening credits sequence is perhaps one of the best in the history of pulp cinema.

The fact that the film actually lives up to much of that promise is exhilaratingly happy news to report.

This wild, messy and downright hilarious comedy-shocker understands that to blend humour and horror properly, you have to allow the terror to be real and simply allow the characters to react to it.

Zombieland does it smashingly, offering tons of outrageously bloody attacks juxtaposed with a central boy-meets-girl story that's as urgent as anything John Hughes penned in his prime.

In a world gone mad, eternally nerdy Columbus (Jason Eisenberg) has learned to survive based on a series of self-made rules, the likes of which are playfully illustrated (complete with heaving, on screen text) throughout the film's running time.

On the web

- For movie trailers, photos and screen times — or to buy tickets — visit metronews.ca/movies

While battling his way across the living-dead-littered landscape, he meets leather-clad tough guy Tallahassee (Woody Harrelson, miming Clint Eastwood and John Wayne outlaw clichés to grand effect), a sexy teenage drifter (Emma Stone) and her bratty 12-year-old sister (Abigail Breslin).

As the motley crew drives their stolen Hummer east toward an abandoned theme park that's supposedly zombie free, people are double-crossed, many cannibal corpses are dispatched in disgusting ways and sweaty-palmed love blossoms.

Lots of critics are lazily comparing this to Simon Pegg's U.K. zom-com Shaun of the Dead, but outside of the zombie apocalypse angle, the two pics couldn't be more different.

Shaun was never scary and treated its zombies as slapstick fodder, but in Zombieland, the walking (and running, and sprinting) dead are truly terrifying and never the source of cheap amusement.

Tight, taught, relentlessly violent and gory but never nihilistic or depressing, Zombieland is 82 minutes of concentrated, sick, cinema bravado, a flesh-eating, knee-slapping and nail-biting good time.

It's punk, it's power, it's women's roller derby

InFocus

Richard Crouse
metronews.ca/infocus

This weekend Drew Barrymore makes her directorial debut with Whip It, the story of a young girl who finds the antidote for her small town blues on the roller derby track.

Barrymore's movie delves deep into the murky world of women's roller derby, but it isn't the sport's first big screen treatment.

In the early 1970s UCLA student Barry Sandler saw his master's thesis, a screenplay called Kansas City Bomber, become a Golden Globe-nominated movie starring Raquel Welch. She plays a single Mom roller-derby queen (Jodie Foster is her daughter) who has an affair with her boss and a skating showdown with a rival.

The 1970s were the height of roller derby's popularity but the sport made a comeback early in the millennium. That return was chronicled in Hell On Wheels, a documentary about a women-only Roller Derby league in Austin, Texas.

Ain't It Cool says this inspirational movie has "the kind of twists, drama, cat fights and compound fractures that only happen in real life."

Maybe that explains why the roller derby is popular again. Sure, the action is wild and wooly and it has a punk rock attitude but its recent recognition has to do with the people and girl power.

Richard Crouse's Movie Show can be seen every Sunday at 6:30 p.m. on the E! Channel; mrchaos33@hotmail.com.

Whip It unconventional

Whip It
Director: Drew Barrymore
Stars: Ellen Page, Kristen Wiig
Classification: PG
Rating: ⊕⊕⊕½

ADAM NAYMAN
for Metro Canada

Halifax native Ellen Page star in Whip It, the directorial debut of Drew Barrymore.

Drew Barrymore's affable directorial debut features Ellen Page as Bliss, a small-town Texas girl whose path to self-actualization takes the form of a roller-derby track.

The character of the snarky non-conformist yearning to escape her backwater environment is, of course, a cliché, but Whip It finds other ways to be unconventional. While Barrymore clearly identifies with her heroine's frustration, she refuses to condescend to Bliss' protective, beauty-pageant-advocating mother, played by Marcia Gay Harden not as a dream-stifling harpy but a sharp, sympathetic woman acting with her offspring's best interest in mind.

From this empathetic, even-handed starting point, Whip It skates briskly through its crowd-pleasing paces. Page is less mannered than usual, and Kristen Wiig, Juliette Lewis and Barrymore herself contribute vivid, funny turns as the veteran skater girls who teach her the tricks of the trade.

Barrymore has chosen her technical collaborators well, especially editor Dylan Tichenor. And she's got an ear for good — as opposed to really irritating — pop music: The hipster-friendly soundtrack peaks with the use of Jens Lekmans' ecstatic Your Arms Around Me over top of what may be the fall's sexiest love scene.

Coco decent biopic

Coco Before Chanel
Director: Anne Fontaine
Stars: Audrey Tautou, Benoit Peolvoorde
Classification: STC
Rating: ⊕⊕⊕

PHIL BROWN
for Metro Canada

REVIEW Coco Avant Chanel is a prestige picture from France being trotted out for Oscar attention. The movie hits many of the Academy's sweet spots: It's a period piece, a biopic, and a movie about female independence.

Awards attention is inevitable but whether or not it is deserved is another matter. Coco Avant Chanel is a decent telling of the early days of fashion icon Gabrielle "Coco" Chanel.

The film picks up with Coco in her 20s trying to become a singer in sleazy French nightclubs. Coco is determined not to fall into a life of servitude to a man, but sadly seems to have no alternative. She ends up living with an absurdly rich aristocrat and scoffs at his wasteful lifestyle.

She starts wearing more masculine clothing to the chagrin of upper-class Parisians, who soon start copying her style. Then she falls in love with a handsome young Englishman who she can never have. In the end, she chooses independence purely because she can't be with the man she loves.

This seems like an awkward way to present a character that is supposed to be an early symbol of female independence. Coco decides to go out on her own purely because her two attempts at finding a male companion failed.

This muddled message aside, the movie is gorgeously made. Director Anne Fontaine vividly recreates turn of the century France and gracefully spins her yarn through painterly cinematography.

Audrey Tautou excels as Coco.

Art, life cross paths for Clarkson in Cairo

ADAM NAYMAN
for Metro Canada

FEATURE "It was a case of art and life merging," Patricia Clarkson says about her role in Ruba Nadda's Cairo Time, which finds the Oscar nominated actress playing a Canadian magazine editor stranded in the Egyptian capital while her husband is off working for the UN.

"I had never been (to Cairo), so I felt like I was going through the same acclimatization process as (my character) Juliette," says Clarkson during an interview at this year's Toronto International Film Festival, where Cairo Time won the Best Canadian Feature prize.

"So even though I was existing inside a person who was very different than I am, I felt like I understood exactly how she was feeling in that city, which has a tone and tempo unlike any in the world."

As one of the busiest American actresses of the past decade, Clarkson knows plenty about tempo, and says that her crowded CV — four films in 2009, with two more, including Martin Scorcese's Shutter Island, slated for 2010 — is actually a little bit deceptive.

"People think I'm always working, but it's all in chunks. It never rains in my work life, but it does pour. I'll shoot three movies back to back — I did Cairo Time after working with Woody Allen and Martin Scorsese — and then I was lying in bed for six months after that."

When asked if she thought that Nadda was intimidated by the calibre of her recent collaborators, Clarkson shakes her head.

"Great directors — and I think that Ruba is a great director — are all very similar," she says. "They may come at in a different way, but the end result is the same."

• Cairo Times opens in Toronto next week.

Doc best, worst of Moore

Capitalism:
A Love Story
Director: Michael Moore
Classification: STC
Rating: ⊕⊕⊕½

PHIL BROWN
for Metro Canada

Michael Moore brings his heavily opinionated documentary-making to Capitalism: A Love Story.

Professional agitator Michael Moore is back with his patented brand of satirical documentary. Moore has been cinema's biggest anti-business advocate for 20 years and today his reheated opinions are more relevant than ever.

Moore's rallying cries against corporate America's undying greed and the potential collapse of the U.S. economy have proven to be frighteningly true over the last year, and no one was more qualified to make a film about the current recession. Of course, it's still Michael Moore and his opinionated approach will irritate everyone who has dismissed him before.

Like all of his previous work, Capitalism: A Love Story offers audiences an episodic analysis of his chosen subject.

Moore combines disturbing footage of families forced out of their homes (in once case even paid to destroy their own belongings), interviews with depressed victims (including a woman who discovered her husband's employer cashed a massive insurance settlement after his death, but shared none of it with the family), comedic stunts, ironic stock footage, and plenty of voiceover to paint a disturbing picture of the current economic climate.

It's easy to criticize the film for being scattershot and heavily opinionated, but that seems unfair. All documentaries present the filmmaker's point of view (as soon as you bring a camera into a room, you change the situation) and at least Moore is honest about it.

His movies are cinematic essays exploring specific issues and the techniques he's most heavily criticized for are always accepted in the printed word.

Capitalism: A Love Story is far from perfect. As a filmmaker Michael Moore is undeniably indulgent and self-aggrandizing, but that's just to be expected at this point. The bottom line is that he was able to take a fairly dry economic analysis and transform it into a movie that is hilarious, compelling, entertaining, touching and vital.

'I am the worst giggler'

Akerman gets her laughs in Couples Retreat

PHIL BROWN
for Metro Canada

Malin Akerman split her childhood between Toronto and Sweden before becoming a model at 17, which eventually led to a career in acting.

Akerman's profile has been steadily rising with high profile roles in films like The Heartbreak Kid and Watchmen. She has split her time between comedies and drama, which the young actress relishes.

"I don't have a preference to be honest with you. Comedy and drama are so different and I enjoy doing everything as an actor," Akerman told Metro. "As long as it's a challenge, I'll try it all. Bring it on."

Akerman's latest venture is a project from Vince Vaughn and Jon Favreau (who burst onto the screen with Swingers in 1996).

Movie feature

The pair co-wrote and star in Couples Retreat — opening next week — a comedy about a group of married couples who embark on a tropical vacation only to unwittingly end up in a weeklong series of skill-building exercises and therapy sessions.

For Akerman the film was an opportunity to work with two comic minds that she has long admired. "I heard that there was a film being made with Vince Vaughn and I knew that they were looking for their girls," said Akerman. "I got my hands on the script and thought it was a really great concept."

Malin landed the job and soon found herself on a plane to Bora Bora. Beyond the tropical location there was still a film to be made and one starring some pretty sharp comic minds. This led to a great deal of improvisation on set, which Akerman enjoys.

"I've always liked improv. I think as long as you know your character and your goal in the scene, improv is easy."

Especially when you're working with masters like Vince Vaughn or Jon Favreau. Once they start going at it, you just want to sit back and enjoy the show.

"I am the worst giggler. You don't want to ruin somebody else's take, but when you're working with this group of people it is not easy to keep a straight face," says Akerman. "I'll felt so bad because I just couldn't do it."

Invention funny, and that's no lie

The Invention of Lying

Director: Ricky Gervais, Matthew Robinson
Stars: Ricky Gervais, Jennifer Garner, Rob Lowe
Classification: STC
Rating: ●●●½

PHIL BROWN
for Metro Canada

REVIEW No one makes awkward discomfort as painfully hilarious as Ricky Gervais. His work in The Office and Extras has made him a comedy icon, but his alienatingly realistic comedic voice has also made him a tough sell in Hollywood.

However he's too big a star for them to ignore, so Gervais has managed to sneak into Hollywood with a pair of high concept comedies: Last year's sadly underrated Ghost Town and now The Invention Of Lying.

Both are hysterical and give Ricky Gervais a chance to show off his chops to a wider audience, even if they don't quite represent the self-titled little fat man with the pug-nosed face at his best.

The Invention Of Lying is ingeniously simple concept created by unknown screenwriter Matthew Robinson who enlisted Ricky Gervais as close collaborator.

The film takes place in a world in which humanity hasn't developed the ability to lie (e.g., commercials involve company employees begging you to use their products).

Then a sadsack Ricky Gervais comes along and invents lying. Suddenly he's able to do anything because no one doubts his lies.

It all leads to a satirical religious allegory when Gervais invents the concept of "the man in the sky" as a deathbed comfort and becomes an accidental messiah.

The movie is silly fun with a brain, populated with a cast Hollywood stars anxious to work with Gervais (including Jennifer Garner, Tina Fey, Christopher Guest, Edward Norton and more).

The Resistance grows

New album from U.K.'s Muse tops charts in 15 countries

BRYAN BORZYKOWSKI
for Metro Canada

When Christopher Wolstenholme answers the phone, he's noticeably excited. Muse's bassist just found out that his group's new album, The Resistance, topped the charts in 15 countries, including Canada.

"This was totally unexpected," he says, still shocked by the news.

Hitting number one in so many places is a challenge for any band, but for Muse, whose epic blend of grand guitars and over-the-top electronics isn't the most mainstream stuff, it's been even more difficult.

Wolstenholme thinks that people finally understand the band. "A lot of people who listened to our past albums felt there was too much on them and they went in many different directions," he reveals. "But people know what they're getting now."

And what they're getting is even more outlandish this time around. While the album is mostly filled with complex keys, soaring Bono-like vocals and chugging riffs, the last three tracks are, literally, a symphony.

Titled Exogenesis, this three-part song collection sounds like a sci-fi symphony, complete with strings, piano and weird electro sounds. It's surprisingly infectious — lead singer Matthew Bellamy sounds like a cross between Roger Waters and Thom Yorke — and while it's definitely grand, it's not as bloated as you might think.

"Initially I was like, 'what is this,'" says Wolstenholme. "It wasn't until the end that I understood what we were doing. It was up to us to trust that Matt had a vision for it. But it turned out great — it's sometimes the stuff that's more challenging that works the best."

Part of the bassist's skepticism likely came from the fact that this wasn't a song meant for a band. Wolstenholme says that while they've used strings before, if you took the extra instruments away the tracks could always be played as a three-piece.

"It wasn't like that with the symphony," he explains. "The band is almost secondary — you can take us away and the song would still work."

"A lot of people who listened to our past albums felt there was too much on them and they went in many different directions. But people know what they're getting now."
Christopher Wolstenholme

Besides being ambitious with their music, the band's lyrics are some of the most intriguing of their career. Themes include political change, constitutional reform, and revolution. There's also a love story running through the disc.

The Resistance is the chart-topping new album from Muse.

The tracks aren't preachy, but Wolstenholme admits it's impossible not to be influenced by politics.

"With 24 hour news channels, it's hard to avoid political images," he says. "But the way Matt played it this time was as an emotional response to political events rather than being political. On the last album the songs were more direct."

With their messages in tow, the band is about to embark on a lengthy tour that'll take them around the world. But now that they're topping charts all over the place it seems they'll have to add a few more places to their itinerary.

"I'm excited to go to Australia," he says. "The weather is great."

You Say Party! We Say Die! make up and record new album XXXX

BRYAN BORZYKOWSKI
for Metro Canada

It's not easy being an overworked Canadian indie band. Just ask You Say Party! We Say Die! whose members nearly came to blows on their last tour.

"One half of the camp was on one side of the street and the rest of us were on the other side," says the Vancouver-based band's lead singer Becky Ninkovic. "It took a day before the manager could even get us in the van together."

It all started to fall apart on week 14 of their 16-week European tour. Ninkovic got sick, and without any breaks in the schedule, she had to push herself night after night. "It led pretty much to a total breakdown," she says.

Part of the problem was that the band, who despite three well-received records was still just an independent act trying to make a name, took every opportunity to play. That led to a packed itinerary and a rock 'n' roll lifestyle that they couldn't keep up with.

"There's so much alcohol and drugs pushed on you," says Ninkovic. "You're sleep deprived, malnourished — you have to learn how to take care of yourself, but unfortunately some of those lessons can only be learned the hard way."

You Say Party finished the tour, but when the band members got back to Canada they went their separate ways.

Ninkovic retreated to her house where, she says, she underwent a sort of rebirth. "I came to a place of brokenness and that's when the power came in. I had epiphany after epiphany that brought me to a place of love."

PAPER BAG RECORDS

XXXX is the new album from indie act You Say Party! We Say Die!

It turns out the whole band was going through something similar. So it's not surprising that when the group members did reunite they created an album all about love. The title, XXXX, is Ninkovic's code word for love and warm feelings of connectedness find their way into much of the lyrics.

The new disc is more focused and polished than other efforts, and while the infectious dance-punk has been toned down, it's still a catchy head-bobbing affair. Now, with a new album, the grind starts again. However, don't expect another near-brawl between the band.

"We know there's a breaking point now," says Ninkovic. "And I don't think we'll ever be yes people in quite the same way again."

Nick Cave and The Death of Bunny Munro

SoundCheck

Alan Cross

metronews.ca/soundcheck

Nick Cave sprawls out on the leather couch in my office in his bespoke Savile Row suit. Sans the moustache, he looks a lot less intimidating than I thought he would. I can relax a little.

Cave, the balladeer leader of the Birthday Party, the Bad Seeds and Grinderman, is also a prolific writer, having penned screenplays (including the rejected Gladitor II, which he wrote at the request of his friend, Russell Crowe), various essays and two novels. He's here to talk about the second one.

"(The Death of Bunny Munro) was a screenplay. John Hillcoat (Nick's director friend) wanted a small English film about a travelling salesman. So I went away with that and came back a couple of weeks later with a script — and it never got made. But I really loved the story, so I thought, 'Why not make it into a novel?'"

Bunny, our, er, hero, is a man of, um, appetites and, as Nick says, "pursues them with conviction." After his wife commits suicide whilst he's out philandering, Bunny plunges into even greater self-destruction while also trying to care for his nine-year-old son, the very brave Bunny Jr. Things do not go well. Everything is written in present tense to enhance Bunny's spiral towards his inevitable doom.

The Death of Bunny Munro is a new novel by Nick Cave.

The story and its characters are profane and extremely funny (except maybe to Avril Lavigne; you'll have to read the book to understand why). The dialogue is something you might hear late at night from road-weary rock musicians on a tour bus. In fact, that's where much of the book was written, between shows on a Bad Seeds tour. The entire first chapter was written on an iPhone. Everything else was written in longhand.

"I gave up writing on a computer altogether because of the delete key because I would write a song that I thought it was good. The next day I'd be in a bad mood and just ... delete. I've lost so much that way."
Nick Cave

"The delete key is dangerous," Nick says, "I gave up writing on a computer altogether because of the delete key because I would write a song that I thought it was good. The next day I'd be in a bad mood and just ... delete. I've lost so much that way."

The book is also available as a fascinating iPhone app and a couple of audio books. The super-deluxe version not only features Nick reading the book but elaborate scoring and production. Listen to it on headphones in the dark and the 3-D effects are almost hallucinatory.

The Death of Bunny Munro (HarperCollins) is out now.

CONSIDERING
Cosmetic Plastic Surgery?
Did you know in Canada any doctor with a license to practice medicine can practice 'cosmetic surgery'. This means a doctor with little or no surgical training can call themselves a 'cosmetic surgeon' and perform invasive procedures like liposuction or breast augmentation.
Only a PLASTIC SURGEON receives formal plastic surgery training of the entire body and is certified in plastic surgery. We encourage anyone considering a plastic surgery procedure to consult with a plastic surgeon.

illScarlett up to the task

Ska-punk quartet finally realize potential

SONY MUSIC PHOTO

Over the past eight years and three albums, the members of illScarlett have honed their craft.

KEITH CARMAN
for Metro Canada

We've all heard that old axiom relating to the blessed moment when everything comes together perfectly, creating a sense of cohesion or success. It's usually referred to as how the third time is a charm.

Such isn't always the case though. In regards to Mississauga-based ska/punk quartet IllScarlett, it took a little bit longer than a tertiary kick at the can to find that sweet spot where intent meets ability. While never at a complete loss or hampered by lack of aptitude, the band feels that over the past eight years and three albums, they've had to continually hone their craft until finally realizing maximum potential with fourth full-length 1Up (Sony Music) released earlier this week.

"This album is really a point of pride," beams vocalist and guitarist Alex Norman moments after jetting back in the midst of a U.S. tour to perform for a packed hometown crowd on 1Up's official street date. "While we still love our other albums, this one really has our fingerprints all over it."

Keen to utilize another adage, Norman refers to 1Up as IllScarlett's "baby," a comment not altogether unheard of from any artist releasing their blood, sweat and tears unto the world for whatever praise and/or criticism it generates.

Yet he quickly notes the band — completed by guitarist Will Marr, drummer Swavek Piorkowski and bassist John Doherty — is still very pleased with their past releases. 2007's All Day With It did reach Gold sales status in Canada. It's just that never before have they taken proper pains to maximize creativity and complete an album unhindered.

"This is the first time we've been able to represent who we truly are on our own terms," Norman continues. "We took a full three months off to write and record this one. I'd say we actually got to create it, where our other records were made in the middle of playing, touring and whatever. Because we were so interactive (1Up), it was a lot of fun and I think that reflects on how it comes across."

At that, Norman is quite direct about exactly how he expects listeners to perceive the band's inherent mix of ska's upbeat, pleasant atmosphere with the expediency of punk rock's pacing on 1Up. He goes so far as to offer some insight on why the album's 12 tracks have a decidedly sharper feel this time around, something he anticipates will direct listeners' immediate comfort with it.

"This album is really a point of pride. While we still love our other albums, this one really has our fingerprints all over it."
Alex Norman

"It's raw," he declares with finality. "It's live. Some songs aren't perfect. There might be a moment where the tuning or the timing is off. That's because we didn't want to lose that human element; that feel. We didn't drive for perfection or stew on it because music is meant to be fun. We weren't so uptight about it. We had fun; were more comfortable instead of putting everything under a microscope. I think albums are more enjoyable when they're natural."

Alice in Chains resurface with new singer, album

AC/DC did it. So did Black Sabbath. Van Halen did it, but not everyone was happy. INXS didn't do it. Nor could Queen. And Motley Crue probably shouldn't even have tried.

The examples of rock bands who succeed in a second wind without their original lead singers are few and far between. Alice in Chains is hoping they'll beat the odds.

The Seattle-based rockers this week release the 11-song Black Gives Way to Blue, their first CD since the 2002 drug overdose death of their lead singer, Layne Staley.

"The loss of Layne is an unfillable hole. We're not trying to fill that space. There's a space that remains empty and we take it with us — that's his, always," says co-guitarist and co-vocalist Jerry Cantrell. "We're creating new space around it, that's all."

The quartet includes Mike Inez on bass, Sean Kinney on drums and new guy William DuVall, who takes on co-guitar and co-vocalist duties.

The album cover shows an unsentimental, almost medical drawing of a human heart, and it doesn't take the band long to acknowledge their personal pain.

"Time to start living, like just before we died," go the lyrics to All Secrets Known, the opening song. "There's no going back to the place we started from."

Kinney and Cantrell say they felt they had to address their loss early on the album.

"You figure you get that out of the way," says Kinney.

"Lay it out there, man," agrees Cantrell. "We haven't pulled any punches before."

The rest of the album explores the themes of persistence and mourning, with the poignant title song coming at the very end, featuring an appearance by Elton John.

While that pairing might seem odd, the band explains that the first concert Staley ever attended — at age seven — was by John and he remained a huge fan. The Rocket Man graciously offered to lend singing and piano duties in tribute.

"That was the cherry on top of everything," says Kinney.

The new music has already made a splash. The first single, Check My Brain, has hit No. 1 on Billboard's rock songs chart and won a slot on the much-desired Hot 100 list. Playboy magazine gave the disc four stars, while Revolver cheered its "dense tapestry of heavy guitars and soaring melodies."

Television

Lou Diamond Phillips appears in Stargate Universe as Colonel Telford, who becomes a nemesis for the rest of the cast.

A workaday celebrity

IAN JOHNSTON
for Metro Canada

Lou Diamond Phillips says he's happy to be called a "working actor."

"I take it as a compliment," says Phillips, 47, whose current project is Stargate Universe, the latest spinoff of the popular sci-fi institution.

"I see myself as an employable actor who's comfortable working in every facet of the industry. That said, I also have four kids who continue to eat every day."

Phillips — whose recent credits include the movie Che, a touring stage production of Camelot, and the reality series I'm A Celebrity, Get Me Out of Here — says Stargate Universe offered him the opportunity to work with a great ensemble cast including Robert Carlyle and Louis Ferreira.

The series is about a group of soldiers and scientists who find themselves lost in space on board an alien ship. Phillips plays Colonel Telford, a no-nonsense soldier who will prove a nemesis for the rest of the cast.

Stargate premieres tonight at 9 on Space

But don't blink: Phillips appears only briefly in the pilot.

"I think they call it a recurring guest-star role. I kind of work my way into the show slowly over time," he says. "But I really love working with an ensemble like this. You can do great work in smaller doses."

Phillips says his experience on I'm A Celebrity, Get Me Out of Here, for which he camped in a Costa Rican jungle with a group that included actor Stephen Baldwin and fashion fixture Janice Dickinson, was "as uncomfortable as it appeared on TV."

"Some people assumed we'd go back to the hotel every night, but it wasn't true," he says. "It was jungle, 24-7. I still have the scars from the bug bites I got."

Diamond cherished the chance to work with the late Patrick Swayze on his final series, The Beast.

Swayze died last month of cancer.

"He was a real accomplished actor and a real man among men," says Phillips. "I remember thinking at the time that if anyone is going to beat (cancer), it would be Patrick."

Heartland heartthrob dishes on his fan mail

IAN JOHNSTON
for Metro Canada

Playing hunky stable boy Ty on CBC's horsy drama Heartland has added a new element to Graham Wardle's career — fan mail. And it's not just the usual preteen girls crushing on the young actor.

"It's pretty wide-ranging," says Wardle, 23, in a break from filming the ranch-based series in Alberta.

"I get emails from fans in their 20s. The ones in their 40s send large envelopes so you can send them back photos. And the six-year-olds like to draw pictures and make bracelets for you. It's definitely a new part of my life."

Graham Wardle

Wardle's growing heart throb status will get a boost in Heartland's third season, which begins Sunday. Ty's ongoing romance with Amy (Amber Marshall) will heat up. However, this being a family series, Ty will still spend most of his nights bunking alone in the barn.

"They'll be together and working on the relationship in this season. But I'm not exactly sure what the writers have planned for them and how that whole sleeping in the barn plays out."

A native of Mission, B.C., Wardle says working with horses is really a matter of the humans being prepared.

"The horses know what they are supposed to do. The actors just have to get it right in a couple of takes or the horses get bored."

Heartland's third season begins this Sunday at 7 p.m. on CBC.

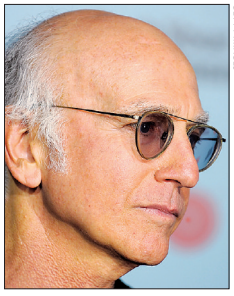
Reiko on Damages

Former 24 heroine Reiko Aylesworth has booked a recurring role on Damages. The actress joins a Season 3 cast that also includes new series regulars Campbell Scott and Martin Short, as well as special guest stars Lily Tomlin and Keith Carradine. EW.COM

Curb your enthusiasm, it's not a real Seinfeld reunion

You know you want it. You may never have said out loud that you wanted a Seinfeld reunion but why would you, cool Seinfeld fan that you are? You know TV reunions are lame. You also know the Seinfeld gang is way too cool to stoop to doing one.

But now, Larry David has reunited his four Seinfeld stars for a sassy story line on his current series, Curb Your Enthusiasm.



GETTY IMAGES

Larry David has reunited his Seinfeld stars for his new series.

He has recaptured the twisted genius of the old show and reignited it, fresh and funny and safely removed from any danger of lameness.

The made-for-TV version of himself that he portrays on his HBO comedy (a cavilling provocateur named Larry David, who formerly produced a show called Seinfeld) sets the plan in motion for a Seinfeld reunion on Sunday's episode of Curb.

But not before resisting.

"You know those reunion shows, they're so lame," TV-Larry scoffs when the idea is first bought to him.

Then, befitting TV-Larry, when he eventually consents, it's not for any logical good reason.

His ulterior motive: To win back his estranged wife, Cheryl (Cheryl Hines). He means to cast her, a would-be actress, as the ex-wife of George Costanza (the character who, played by Jason Alexander, always served as David's Seinfeld doppelganger).

Granted, Pirandello would be easier to sort out than this double-helix of parody and truth. Doesn't matter. What matters is, this particular Curb — the third episode in its triumphant seventh season — is a compact masterpiece.

It finesses a hilarious clash between David and the Seinfeld foursome (Alexander, Michael Richards, Julia Louis-Dreyfus and, of course, Jerry Seinfeld), reconvened 11 years after the Seinfeld finale with hilarious, organic aplomb.

"Why isn't it lame?" says TV-Jerry when TV-Larry coaxes him to say yes.

"Because we'll do it in a way that won't be lame," vows TV-Larry, flush with his covert Cheryl-targeted agenda.

And he does! They do!

Ex-prosecutor says he lied in Polanski doc

COURTS A former prosecutor says he made up a story he told a film crew about advising a judge handling Roman Polanski's sex case to send the director to prison.

In Roman Polanski: Wanted and Desired, David F. Wells is depicted as conferring with a trial judge more than 30 years ago about Polanski's case. Wells said in the documentary that the judge took his advice in deciding to renege on a plea bargain and give Polanski additional prison time.

"I made that up to make the stuff look better," Wells said.

He also said he overstated his actions after being told the film would air in France, not the United States. The film aired on HBO.

Wells' statement on the documentary later became part of the basis for a move by Polanski's attorneys to dismiss the case against the fugitive director, who was arrested in Switzerland on Saturday.

In France, several government officials who had initially rushed to Polanski's defence were being more cautious on Thursday, stressing that the renowned filmmaker is not above the law.

Wells, who retired more than two years ago, did not handle Polanski's case but was assigned to the courtroom where it was heard and had frequent interactions with the now-deceased trial judge Laurence J. Rittenband.

"They interviewed me in the Malibu courthouse when I was still a DA, and I embellished a story," Wells said about the film crew in an interview with The Associated Press Wednesday. "I'm a guy who cuts to the chase — I lied. It embarrasses the hell of me."

Wells said he was sorry about making the comments for the documentary. "I cost the DA's office a lot of money and aggravation over this," Wells said.

HANNAH ZITNER
for Metro Toronto

Award-winning photojournalism will be on display next week, when the World Press Photo exhibit makes a three-week stop in Toronto.

"The World Press Photo is an amazing representation of images from around the world that communicate the lives and different perspectives of societies from all four corners of the world," said Erin Elder, digital media manager at The Globe and Mail and first and only Canadian juror for the competition.

The exhibit is a culmination of 196 images chosen by 13 international judges, whittled down from more than 96,000 photos submitted by photojournalists, newspapers, magazines and photo agencies.

"It's an awesome task," Elder, a two-time juror, said. "Some days you're doing it for 16 hours ... one round they ended at 5 a.m."

Judges have roughly one week to select images based on news value and creativity from across ten categories, including spot news, sports, nature, people and arts & entertainment.

Although there were several different perspectives at the judges table, Elder says through dialogue and discussion, jurors often became united in their views. "In this way it really was selection by jury and there were no dominant selectors."

The Photo of the Year award is given to the image that is the best "photojournalistic encapsulation the year."

This year's top prize went to Anthony Suau from Time USA for a black and white image of a detective entering gun-in-hand into a run-down, foreclosed Cleveland home as he ensures squatters haven't moved in.

Although many associate the WPP exhibit with images of war and hardship, Elder said only one quarter of the images represent "bad situations."

Included in that quarter, is Canadian Kevin Frayer's third-place photo in the general news category of Palestinians hiding under an olive tree as Israeli troops fire tear gas near Ramallah.

Another Canadian represented in the exhibit is Julian Wainwright with his series of male divers at the 2008 Beijing Olympics. His photo story won third prize in the sports action category.

The year's competition saw the largest number of entries with 5,508 photographers from 124 different countries.

As society moves online, uploading images from newborn babies to drunken nights out, Elder said more people are "speaking visually."

"Visual communication is everywhere, it's alive and well."

Nuit Blanche 2009 now reloaded

JOHN KEILOR
for Metro Toronto

Toronto's fourth Scotiabank Nuit Blanche is the sort of large-scale democratic arts event that could easily prove unmanageable, showcasing stuff that's big and small, local and international, with megastars and undervalued talent rubbing shoulders, all through this long Saturday night.

Indeed, the only way to keep a burgeoning city tradition domesticated is to continue improving it.

"We've made several significant changes to the event this year," says Giannina Warren, publicist for this year's Nuit Blanche. "For one thing, the projects are closer together. Last year they were more spread out, so now it's easier for pedestrians to see everything that interests them."

The event will be divided into three zones, all meeting at Queen and Spadina. Zone A is bracketed by Dupont and Queen, Spadina and Jarvis.

Nuit Blanche offers more than 130 sights to see this year.

Zone B runs from Queen to Lakeshore, from Spadina to the Don Valley Parkway. Zone C goes from Spadina to Lansdowne, from Lakeshore to Dundas.

Pedestrians are getting more consideration this year. "There will be road closures," says Warren, "Bay will be closed after 6 p.m., between Gerrard and Front. Liberty Street will be closed after 5 p.m., through the Village between Dufferin and Pirandello. And McCaul too, will be closed after 4 p.m., between Dundas and Grange."

The TTC will be running all night, with extended lines of operation to Keele and Woodbine. Blue light shuttle busses will be added. A special $9 Scotiabank bus pass will be available that gets up to four people to all the events up until 9 a.m.

"Most important is that people plan their evening," says Warren. "There are over 130 different things to see this year. It will be pretty much impossible to see everything. The website (scotiabanknuitblanche.ca/home.shtml) includes online interactive tools, including a planning tool and a night navigator. It's GPS enabled, and there will be phone apps to help people get around, with photo recognition."

The site also allows you to tweet and vote on artworks and argue about which installations and artworks are the best. More food and refreshments will be available, so 2009's Nuit Blanche seems to be fully tweaked.

TOP FIVE MUST-SEE EVENTS

- Rabbit Balloons at the Eaton's Centre by Jeff Koons: Find out if you think he should be the highest paid artist working today (he is). Decide for yourself if he's funny or infuriating or both.
- Battle Royale by Shaun Leonardo: A cage match by wrestlers at Toronto Bus Terminal. Old School wrestling is a proud tradition that's fake yet very dangerous, a true art unto itself.
- Beautiful Light: 4 LETTER WORD MACHINE by D. A. Therrien at City Hall: It's like an electric fireworks display with important messages, each letter seven meters square, 65 meters up between the two city hall towers.
- FIRE AND SAUSAGE: Small Mercies by Tom Dean: Some free food and civic conviviality at the corner of Liberty and Hanna. The title alone is magic. The city's spirit is really the highlight of the event though, helpful and generous, as we've seen in blackouts over the years.
- Surrounded by Tears by Oswaldo Macia: Bell-laden sound installation at the Liberty Market Building's Atrium Corridor. It includes the sound of a hundred individual cries. This installation was created with help from composer Michael Nyman and designer Jasper Morrison.

Jackson was a fairly healthy 50-year-old, autopsy results show

Michael Jackson's arms were covered with punctures, his face and neck were scarred and he had tattooed eyebrows and lips, but he wasn't the sickly skeleton of a man portrayed by tabloids, according to his autopsy report obtained by The Associated Press.

In fact, the Los Angeles County coroner's report shows Jackson was a fairly healthy 50-year-old before he died of an overdose. His 136 pounds were in the acceptable range for a 5-foot-9 man. His heart was strong with no sign of plaque buildup. And his kidneys and most other major organs were normal.

Jackson

Still, Jackson had health issues: arthritis in the lower spine and some fingers, and mild plaque buildup in his leg arteries. Most serious were his lungs, which the autopsy report said were chronically inflamed and had reduced capacity that might have left him short of breath.

However, according to the document, the lung condition was not serious enough to be a direct or contributing cause of death. "His overall health was fine," said Dr. Zeev Kain, chairman of the anesthesiology department at the University of California, Irvine, who reviewed a copy of the autopsy report for the Associated Press. "The results are within normal limits."

Kain was not involved in the autopsy. The full autopsy report has not been released publicly but the AP obtained a copy.

Jackson died at his rented Los Angeles mansion June 25 after his personal physician, Dr. Conrad Murray, administered the anesthetic propofol and two other sedatives to get the chronic insomniac to sleep, court documents state. Propofol, normally a surgical anesthetic used in operating rooms, acts as a respiratory depressant and requires constant monitoring,

The coroner's office announced last month that Jackson's death was a homicide caused by "acute propofol intoxication," with the other sedatives listed as a contributing factor. They said the standard of care for administering propofol was not met and the recommended equipment for patient monitoring, precision dosing and resuscitation was missing.

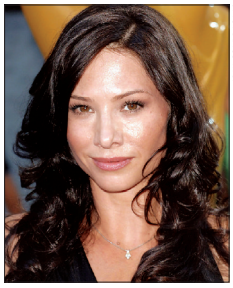
Brown departs General Hospital to become Bold and Beautiful

TELEVISION Sarah Brown will be checking out of ABC's General Hospital and into CBS' The Bold and the Beautiful, and she won't get a moment's rest in between.

The actress's last appearance on the ABC daytime soap as Claudia Zacchara, the sexy daughter of a mobster, is set for Nov. 5. The next day, she's to be introduced as goodhearted newcomer Sandy Sommers on The Bold and the Beautiful.

Brown, a triple Daytime Emmy winner when she played a previous character on General Hospital, said her contract with the serial ran through Jan. 14 and could have barred her from joining the CBS show, even though her ABC role was set to conclude.

But in a rare goodwill gesture involving a competitor, ABC agreed to release her early, said Bold and the Beautiful executive producer Bradley P. Bell. The show was named best drama series at this year's Daytime Emmys.



JPI STUDIOS INC.

Actress Sarah Brown is leaving ABC's General Hospital for CBS' The Bold and the Beautiful.

"I was stunned. It was something really very human and very big of them," Bell said. "They were putting the needs of the actress, who is a mother, ahead of the network's."

He called Brown, single mom of 11-year-old Jordan, a powerhouse actress.

With diminishing viewership and the loss of series including the recently ended Guiding Light, daytime soaps overall are beneficiaries of ABC's largesse, Bell said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Flocking to Brackendale

B.C.'s bald eagle capital is set for raptors' return

Those hoping to watch or compete in Whistler's 2010 Olympics won't be the only ones flocking along British Columbia's Sea-to-Sky Highway in the coming months.

Hundreds of bald eagles, perhaps even thousands, are expected to make their annual pilgrimage this November to Brackendale, B.C. The community is located just 30 minutes south of Whistler, which will play host to the alpine skiing, bobsleigh, luge and skeleton events during the Games.

Brackendale already lays claim to its own world record of sorts — 15 years ago, more than 3,700 bald eagles were counted along the Squamish River.

The eagles are drawn to the area by the abundance of chum salmon in the Squamish, Cheakamus, and Mamquam rivers and those hoping to view the birds have no shortage of options.

They can simply walk to a vantage point and watch as the birds sit on trees like huge Christmas ornaments or, for those who want to get even closer, there are river rafting trips.

"On one of the trips I was on last year, there was an old log that was sticking out over top of the river and literally we went right underneath an eagle that was sitting on top of that snag," said Murray Seward, general manager for Canadian Outback Adventures, canadianoutback.com. "We were within five or six feet of it and it didn't even move."

Canadian Outback Adventures' bald eagle safari tours run between November and February and Seward says the rafting expeditions are popular with clients from all over the world.

"It's a very, very quiet gorgeous place," said Seward. "Typically, there's probably some fog on the river, some mist, you've got the beautiful forest in behind the river and the mountains and then you've got hundreds to thousands of eagles sitting on either the trees or along the riverbank, picking away at the salmon that have spawned."

Seward gushed over the speed with which the eagles, who are careful to minimize their movements in the cold winter months, can fly.

"You can see them focusing on something, there may be a salmon that's recently come up onto the riverbank," he said. "You can see (a bald eagle) beeline it from ages away to get to it. It's quite amazing."

No more husbands for Madonna

NOT THE MARRYING KIND
Madonna wants to put all the rumours about her planning to marry Jesus Luz to rest. She stopped by David Letterman's talk show, where she explained her previous marriage to Guy Ritchie by pointing out it was "the Bush years … a good time to be out of America." When pressed about any future nuptials, Madonna was clear. "I think I'd rather get run over by a train," she said.

'A dangerous game'

EXTORTION CASE A lawyer for John Travolta testified Thursday that he warned a former Bahamas senator she would not get away with an alleged scheme to extort $25 million from the movie star.

Attorney Michael McDermott said the defendant, Pleasant Bridgewater, contacted him by telephone and demanded the money on behalf of a paramedic who had treated the actor's 16-year-old son, Jett, following a seizure that led to his death.

The pair allegedly threatened to go to the media with a consent form that the actor signed to have his autistic son taken to an airport and flown to the U.S. for treatment. Travolta later changed his mind and Jett died at a local hospital Jan. 2.

McDermott said he told Bridgewater during the Jan. 12 phone conversation that she was committing a crime.

"I then told her: 'You are playing a very dangerous game, lady. I do not assent to your demands. I will go to the police,'" McDermott said.

Bridgewater and the paramedic, Tarino Lightbourne, have pleaded not guilty to extortion charges at the trial that began Sept. 21.

Engagement off

GIVE THE RING BACK Rose McGowan has broken off her engagement — again, femalefirst.co.uk reports.

The former Charmed star has split from director Robert Rodriguez for the second time since they got engaged in October 2007.

They have yet to release a statement explaining the reason for the break-up. The pair met in 2007 when the 36-year-old actress starred in Rodriguez's film Planet Terror.

After a whirlwind romance, Rodriguez divorced his wife of 16 years and proposed to McGowan. The pair split less than one year later, only to reconcile after a few months apart.

They were reportedly planning to wed this year.

Watson can't shake press

THIS IS THE IVY LEAGUE Harry Potter star Emma Watson isn't having the easiest time adjusting to college life in the U.S. And obnoxious Harvard students aren't helping.

Watson recently travelled to Boston for a football game between Harvard and her Brown University, only to have her visit chronicled by student publication the Harvard Voice that had promised to "stalk" the actress, posting Twitter updates and photos online, according to Page Six.

Watson ended up attending the game flanked by security.

Jon&Kate filming ceased

KATE PLUS NO ONE TLC network has shut down filming of the children on Jon&Kate Plus 8 after receiving a cease-and-desist order from their father, Jon Gosselin.

In a statement, the network said production would remain suspended "pending further conversations" between both Gosselins, who are parents of young twins and sextuplets. Filming not directly involving the kids continues, TLC said Thursday.

The Insider website reported Thursday that Gosselin demanded through his lawyers that the TLC production crew vacate the property of the family home in Pennsylvania.

In its statement, TLC said it remained "deeply disappointed at his continued erratic behaviour. He and the family were shooting as recently as last Friday, without incident…"

Metro Recipe of the Day

Seasoned Salmon Steaks

INGREDIENTS:

6 salmon steaks (1 in./2.5 cm thick)
1/2 cup (125 ml) butter, melted
2 tsp (10 ml) seasoned salt
2 tsp (10 ml) Italian seasoning
2 tsp (10 ml) lemon juice
1/2 tsp (2 ml) garlic powder
1/2 tsp (2 ml) grated lemon peel
Dash cayenne pepper

METHOD:

1. Place salmon on greased broiler rack. Broil 4-6 in. from heat 8-10 minutes.
2. Meanwhile, combine remaining ingredients. Brush some over some over salmon. Turn and broil 10 minutes longer or until fish flakes easily with fork. Baste with remaining butter mixture.

ARIES ♈
MARCH 21-APRIL 20
Whatever you do today, someone will complain about it, but now you know that you won't let it get to you. Focus on what you are doing.

TAURUS ♉
APRIL 21-MAY 21
You may have a To Do list as long as your arm but you can safely forget about it for the next few days.

GEMINI ♊
MAY 22-JUNE 21
If there is something you need to tell other people, something you find a bit embarrassing, get it off your chest now.

CANCER ♋
JUNE 22-JULY 22
Others may frown at your behaviour, but only because they are jealous that you don't let social conventions hold you back from having a good time.

LEO ♌
JULY 23-AUG 23
You may suffer a momentary loss of confidence today but according to the planets there is nothing to fear, so expect the weekend to be better.

VIRGO ♍
AUG 24-SEPT 22
Something seems to be causing you sleepless nights at the moment but whatever it is, it won't bug you for long.

LIBRA ♎
SEPT 23-OCT 23
The Sun in your sign enhances your energy and highlights your ambition, so get out there and show the world what you can do.

SCORPIO ♏
OCT 24-NOV 22
If certain individuals want to feel sorry for themselves that's up to them, but they shouldn't expect you to join in their misery.

SAGITTARIUS ♐
NOV 23-DEC 21
Dreams and wishes often come true and what you are dreaming of and wishing for today could easily be your reality tomorrow.

CAPRICORN ♑
DEC 22-JAN 20
Like everyone else you have failed at some time and one particular failure is weighing heavily on your mind at the moment.

AQUARIUS ♒
JAN 21-FEB 18
The Sun in Libra is doing much to cheer you up but Neptune in your own sign is again undermining your confidence.

PISCES ♓
FEB 19-MARCH 20
Cosmic activity in some of the more sensitive areas of your chart make life seem tougher than it really is. Remember: Laughter is the best medicine.

Selection will vary by store. Savings are off our regular prices, unless otherwise specified. Everyday Bay Value, just-reduced, Power Buys, Manager's Specials, licensed departments, Salviati, Vera Wang and Hbc Foundation charity merchandise are excluded. When you see "POWER BUY" or "MANAGER'S SPECIAL" you will know we have found an exceptional deal to pass on to you. We may tell you the COMPARABLE VALUE on the price ticket and/or a sign, so you will see the price another retailer in Canada charges or would likely charge for the same or a comparable value item. Quantities of our Power Buys and Manager's Specials and items located in any "Style Outlet" in-store departments are limited and may vary from store to store – no rain checks or substitutions. When we say "PRICE CUT", we mean the existing everyday price is being lowered temporarily. See in-store for details.
